Documenting COVID’s Impact on Gender, Girl Child’s Education and Marginalized Section of Society: Prakriti and IQAC

COVID-19 AND MENTAL HEALTH OF WOMEN

Gender inequalities would widen during and after the pandemic and that gains in women's and girls' accumulation of human capital, economic empowerment and voice painstakingly built over the past decades will be reversed.

COVID-19 AND THE WOMEN FRONTLINE WORKERS

Due to women's caregiving roles both inside and outside the home, women are disproportionately exposed to COVID-19. Globally, 88% of personal care workers and 69% of health professionals are female. In Spain, for instance, among infected health care workers, 71.8 % are female compared to 28.2% male.
